Democratic Ticket, 1852.

FOR PRESIDENT,
STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, of Illinois.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
R. M. T. HUNTER, of Virginia.

FRIDAY, : : FEBRUARY 13, 1852.

FOR SALE AT THE DESK.
Copies of the Daily Paper can be procured at the desk, with or without envelopes, at 5 cents per single copy or 35 cents per dozen.

We do not relish the state of things in Pennsylvania. The old Keystone has been generally a reliable Democratic State. At the last election she was right side up with care. We have some apprehensions that she is not, however, in what mechanical philosophers call a condition of "stable equilibrium." She might, perchance, topple over again, as she did in 1848. A fierce contest has been gotten up in the State, very unwisely, in our judgment, between the friends of General Cass and Mr. Buchanan, which has been carried to a very unhappy extent. These State contests answer no purpose but to injure the party they are intended to benefit; and are very unfortunate in such a State as Pennsylvania, upon which a good deal may depend. In a State decidedly whig, or entirely Democratic, such a contest might do little harm, but even then could do little good. Cass and Buchanan are both great men—both known to the Democratic party on one end of the Union to the other. They will need no State endorsements at Baltimore. Let every man have his own preference until the Baltimore convention meets; and that b-y will be less embarrassed in its action; and find a more cordial support of their nomination at home. This is the policy we have all along insisted upon, and we are more and more convinced of its correctness. It may appear best at Baltimore to nominate one or the other of the distinguished men whose friends are contesting the matter so bitterly in Pennsylvania; and the issue made there by their respective friends may create a difficulty that would not otherwise exist.

Everything for the cause; nothing at all for men. The Baltimore convention must studiously disregard all personal and local preferences.

Is the man proposed a true democrat? Has he proved himself so in word and deed? Will he encounter generally the least of local or sectional prejudice?

The mass of the Democratic party are not for men, whatever the politicians may say. They have a right to expect and demand that the best selection be made, regardless of all selfish combinations and local or State partialities.

We claim the credit of being above them all. We look only to the success of the Democratic party upon sound principles; a success without any compromise of the party or its principles; a success that we can be proud of after it is won. Every other good, intelligent Democrat, has the same end in view. We may differ about the man, and have a right to differ; but such a controversy as is going on in Pennsylvania, will be agreed on all hands to be inexpedient.

DEMOCRATIC REVIEW.—This capital journal has kept the faith, and never bowed down to any idols of fanaticism or faction, has a leading article upon 1852 and the presidency. It names no one, but it points significantly to just such a man as the "Little Giant" of the West. Some of our contemporaries, who have their eyes turned in a different direction, complain that the Review dictates on this subject. We can't appreciate the point of grievance. Men who think clearly generally write for force; which men must feel, although they will not relish the doctrine. As to dictation, this is a free country. Everybody has a right to dictate to everybody else; and nobody is bound to regard anybody's dictation. So we say to all complainants, if you don't like dictation of the Review, dictate yourselves, and be hanged to you!

The editorial correspondent of the Madisonian, published at Madison, Ind., speaking of the friends of Gen. Cass, says:

One thing is certain, they will never vote for Judge Douglas. He entered the list as an opponent of all the other candidates, and not as a compromise candidate. He is the second choice of no one of the other candidates.

This is the same correspondent who informed the rest of mankind that General Cass was the first choice of Mr. Clay for the next presidency, and that the Kentucky statesman would will the office to General Cass, should he die before the next presidential election.

WHERE IS GENERAL HINTON?—The whereabouts of this "celebrated" defaulter, who fled from Ohio and justice about a year ago, has at last been discovered. The editor of the Zanesville Courier states that he saw a letter on Monday morning last, from a gentleman in Sacramento, and formerly a resident of Zanesville, to one of the citizens of that place, stating that he had seen the celebrated Gen. O. Hinton, and had been at the same dinner table with him. The writer states that Hinton looked as "natural as a basket of chips," as little like a drowned man as could anywhere be met with. He's "fat," "saucy," and, from all appearances, "well and long to live."—Cin. Gazette.

This is the mail agent who left Ohio for Ohio's good.

The editor of the Journal need not be in trouble about the compromise. We have again and again offered the editor the compromise, upon his party giving security that they will keep it safely. They have not yet complied with our terms. The offer is still open, so far as we are concerned. The Democratic party will not expend their energies in so easy a task as supporting the compromise. It is only now an incidental matter. The whigs know that the compromise is already sustained. If the thing was difficult to be done, they would be very clear of offering to do it.

But to the security. Has the editor of the Journal any to offer? The whigs need something to run upon; and the compromise is somewhat old and worn. It will just suit the whigs now.

The New French Constitution.

The following is the new Constitution, as promulgated on the morning of January 15th, in the Moniteur, in virtue of the powers delegated by the French people to Louis Napoleon Bonaparte, by the vote of the 20th and 21st of December, 1851:

The President of the Republic, considering that the French people has called to pronounce on the following resolution, viz: "The people wishes the maintenance of the authority of Louis Napoleon Bonaparte, and gives him the necessary powers to make a Constitution on the bases established in his proclamation of the 2d of December;" considering that the bases proposed for the acceptance of the people were:

1. A responsible Chief named for 10 years.

2. Ministers dependent on the Executive Power alone.

3. A Council of State formed of the most distinguished men, preparing the laws and maintaining the discussion of them in the Legislative Corps.

4. A Legislative Corps, discussing and voting the laws named by universal suffrage, without the scrutin de liste, which falsifies the election.

5. A Second Assembly, formed of all the distinguished men of the country, a balancing power, guaranteeing the fundamental pact and of the public interests; and considering that the people have answered affirmatively by 7,500,000 suffrages, he promulgates the Constitution, the tenor of which is as follows:

SECTION 1.—OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC.

Art. 1. The Constitution recognizes, confirms, and guarantees the great principles proclaimed in 1789, and which form the bases of the public rights of the French people.

SECTION 2.—FORMS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF THE REPUBLIC.

Art. 2. The Government of the French Republic is entrusted to Prince Louis Napoleon Bonaparte, actual President of the Republic, for ten years.

Art. 3. The President of the Republic governs by means of the Ministers, the Council of State, the Senate, and the Legislative body.

Art. 4. The Legislative power is exercised collectively by the President of the Republic, the Senate, and the Legislative body.

SECTION 3.—OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC.

Art. 5. The President of the Republic is responsible to the French people, to whom he is elected for ten years.

Art. 6. The President of the Republic is the Chief of the State. He commands the land and sea forces, declares war, concludes treaties and makes rules and decrees for the execution of the laws.

Art. 7. Justice is rendered in his name.

Art. 8. He alone has the initiative of the laws.

Art. 9. He has the right to pardon.

Art. 10. He sanctions and promulgates the laws and the Senatus-Consults.

Art. 11. He presents the state of affairs of the Republic every year to the Senate and Legislative body by means of a message.

Art. 12. He has a right to declare the state of siege in one or several departments, on the condition of referring to the Senate with the shortest delay. The consequences of the state of siege are regulated by law.

Art. 13. The Ministers depend solely on the Chief of the State. Each is responsible only as far as the acts of the Government regard him. There is no solidarity between them. They can only be impeached (mis en accusation) by the Senate.

Art. 14. The Ministers, members of the Senate, the Legislative body, and the Council of State, the officers of the land and sea forces, the magistrates and the public functionaries, take the following oath: "I swear obedience to the Constitution and fidelity to the President."

Art. 15. A Senatus-Consultum fixes the sum allowed annually to the President of the Republic for the entire duration of his functions.

Art. 16. Should the President of the Republic die before the expiration of his office (mandat) the Senate convokes the nation to proceed to a new election.

Art. 17. The Chief of the State has a right to deposit in the archives of the Republic by a secret act deposited in the archives of the State to point out to people the name of the citizen he recommends in the interest of France to the confidence of the people and to its suffrages.

Art. 18. Until the election of the new President of the Republic, the President of the Senate governs with the concurrence of the Ministers, who form themselves into a Government Council, and deliberate by a majority of votes.

SECTION 4.—OF THE SENATE.

Art. 19. The number of the Senators cannot exceed 150. It is fixed at 80 for the present.

Art. 20. The Senate is composed, 1st, of the Cardinals, Marshals, Admirals; 2d, of the citizens whom the President of the Republic deems fit to elevate to the dignity of Senator.

Art. 21. The Senators are not removable, and are for life.

Art. 22. The functions of Senator are gratuitous, nevertheless the President of the Republic may accord the Senators, by reason of the services rendered by them to the Republic, a pension for the remainder of their position as Senators, on condition of a personal donation, which shall not exceed 30,000 francs, yearly.

Art. 23. The President and Vice Presidents of the Senate are named by the President of the Republic, and are chosen among the Senators.

Art. 24. The President of the Senate is named for one year. The salary of the President of the Senate is fixed by a decree.

Art. 25. The President of the Republic convokes and prorogues the Senate. He fixes the time and place of its sittings. The sittings of the Senate are public.

Art. 26. The Senate is the guardian of the fundamental pact and of the public liberties—No law can be published before being submitted to it.

Art. 27. The Senate opposes the publication of laws which may be contrary to or affect the Constitution, religion, morals, the equality of citizenship, the liberty of persons, equality of rights before the law, inviolability of property, and the principle of the irremovability of the magistracy; 2d, of those which may endanger the safety of the territory.

Art. 28. The Senate regulates by a Senatus-Consultum 1st, the Constitution of the colonies and of Algeria; 2d, all that has not been provided for by the Constitution, and which is necessary to its maintenance; 3d, the significance of the word Constitution which may give rise to various interpretations.

Art. 29. These Senatus-Consults shall be submitted to the sanction of the President of the Republic, and promulgated by him.

Art. 30. The Senate may, by a Senatus-Consultum, submit to universal suffrage, such as they have been enunciated in the proclamation of the 2d of December, and adopted by the French people.

SECTION 5.—OF THE LEGISLATIVE CORPS.

Art. 31. The election has the population for basis.

Art. 32. There will be one deputy to the Legislative Corps for every 35,000 electors.

Art. 33. The deputies are elected by universal suffrage, without the scrutin de liste.

Art. 34. They do not receive any salary.

Art. 35. They are named for six years.

Art. 36. The Legislative Corps discusses and votes the projects of law and the imports.

Art. 37. Every amendment adopted by the Legislative Corps, for the purpose of the commission charged with the examination of a project of law shall be sent, without discussion, to the Council of State by the President of the Legislative Corps. If the amendment is not adopted by the Council of State it cannot be

Dr. Guyssot's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla.

Scrophulous, Syphilitic, Mercurial Contaminations, Cancer, Glands, Rheumatism, and a vast variety of other dangerous and dangerous diseases are speedily and perfectly cured by this medicine.

Dr. Guyssot's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla.

MA. JOHN D. PARK—Dear Sir: It is with unfeigned feelings of gratitude that I am able, through the Divine Providence of God, and by the wonderful working agency of this excellent medicine, "Guyssot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla," to give you some symptoms of my almost hopeless case.

In the winter of 1850, I was attacked with a severe pain, which was gradually extending through the whole right side and leg; at the same time, a total prostration of my system; also, a total loss of appetite, and a total loss of the power of locomotion. I procured the attendance of one of the most famous practitioners, who pronounced my case one of the worst forms of cancer, and that I could not help me. I then procured of your agent at this place, W. A. Beers, two bottles of Guyssot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, which I received with great amount of benefit. After having taken four bottles more, I was able to pursue my usual mode of life, and, in a short time, I was able to walk, and I am now able to give you some symptoms of my almost hopeless case.

Yours, W. A. BEERS.

MA. JOHN D. PARK—Dear Sir: I send you the foregoing certificate, and so far as I am acquainted with his case, it is all true. I procured a bottle of Guyssot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, and I have the privilege of using it as you think best.

Yours, W. A. BEERS.
